NEW PATCH ALERT 2012-2

"A Generation of Exploration"

Space Shuttle Commemorative Patch

This 12 inch fully embroidered patch celebrates every mission in the Shuttle Program. The central focus is the Astronaut Symbol which connects launch and landing of the orbiter as this was the first spacecraft with that capability. The orbiter in flight depicts the DoD missions as its payload bay is hidden – its orbital path starts silver and becomes gold. The planets Venus and Jupiter represent the missions launched from the shuttle to explore those worlds.

Iconic scenes and payloads surround the area of space in tribute to the versatility of the space shuttle orbiters. They include a Spacelab module, an astronaut flying the MMU, the LDEF and TDRSS. Also shown are the great observatories Compton, Hubble and Chandra as well as the space stations visited and assembled, Mir and the International Space Station. The re-entering orbiter glows red hot as it returns to Earth. Finally the orbiter is transported atop the modified 747 to be readied for its next mission.
