

HONORING THE ASTRONAUTS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY, INDIANA

Commissioned by the Liberty Bell Anniversary Committee, Tim Gagnon and Jorge Cartes have designed this commemorative patch to celebrate the three Astronauts who call Lawrence County, Indiana home. Spanning the entire history of US Human Spaceflight they are:

LTC Virgil "Gus" Grissom, USAF - one of the original Mercury Astronauts who also flew as Command Pilot for the first manned Gemini flight. Grissom lost his life in service to his country and space program on January 27, 1967.

Charles D. Walker - an Aerospace Engineer who flew three shuttle missions as a Payload Specialist in 1984 & '85.

Capt Kenneth Bowersox, USN (ret) – selected as an Astronaut in 1987, Bowersox flew four shuttle missions, two as Pilot and two as Commander before serving as Commander of the Expedition 6 increment aboard the International Space Station.

The patch design illustrates the three helmets and spacecraft of the astronauts. Lawrence County and the State of Indiana are prominently displayed. The stars represent their missions.
